

Life Strategies Feature of the Month: September 2014

New Ways to Stay Connected with Life Strategies

Over the years, Life Strategies has published over 100 posts on our Career Engagement blog focused on a wide variety of topics (e.g., sustainability, work search, and diversity). We've now moved our blog to career-engagement.lifestrategies.ca. Update your bookmarks to stay connected. We will continue to feature content related to individual career engagement, employee engagement, and organizational career development. A great read for job seekers, career practitioners, and HR professionals on all things related to career.

Additionally, our diversity-themed blogs are relevant for individuals from a wide range of diverse groups and the people who support them. Also a great read for employers seeking to understand the unique challenges of diverse groups and how to best support them in the workplace.

If you're looking for learning-focused posts, check out our brand new LearnOnline blog for posts related to curriculum design, e-learning, and lifelong learning. We will also profile various learning opportunities including those from our LearnOnline programs and courses. Bookmark learnonlineblog.lifestrategies.ca.

We invite you to stay connected with us by following our blogs.

Life Strategies is also now on Pinterest. Yet another great way to stay connected with us. Check us out at pinterest.com/lstrategies.

604.856.2386
info@lifestrategies.ca
www.lifestrategies.ca